

Pure Health Trends Network: Giving the rub out to heart disease?

By Pure Health Trends Network

Dated: Dec 06, 2007

Estimates for the year 2004 are that 79,400,000 Americans have one or more forms of cardiovascular disease (CVD). And the mortality rate of people with Cardiovascular disease in 2004 was almost double that of cancer.

Heart disease is on the rise in America. But, does it have to be like this? We don't think so. The combination of L-arginine, Betaine, Vitamine E, and Vitamins B-6 and B-12 could very well be the answer to many peoples prayers.

L- Arginine and cardiovascular research in the scientific community and especially cardiovascular surgeons have been very focused on finding out how to unleash L-Arginine's powerful capacity and utilize it in everyday medicine. They paint a picture of L-Arginine's benefits for the coronary vascular system by saying supplementation makes the vessels slippery like Teflon instead of sticky like Velcro.

Betaine, which is found in L-Argimax is a nutrient that plays an important role in the health of the cardiovascular system. Studies have suggested that betaine, along with other nutrients, helps to reduce potentially toxic levels of homocysteine (Hcy), a naturally occurring amino acid that can be harmful to blood vessels thereby contributing to the development of heart disease, stroke, and peripheral vascular disease (reduced blood flow to the legs and feet.

And

A new randomized, double-blind, placebo-controlled cardiovascular study evaluating natural vitamin E, synthetic vitamin C, and synthetic beta-carotene has shown that natural vitamin E reduced cardiovascular death or serious cardiovascular disease by a statistically significant 13%, the primary end point of the study. Natural vitamin E also showed improvement in secondary end points, including a 22% reduction in heart attacks, a 27% reduction in strokes (31% when combined with vitamin C), and a 9% reduction in cardiovascular death. These results for natural vitamin E are nothing short of astounding as they used the gold standard of human testing!
